

SEVERE RHEUMATIC
PAINS DISAPPEAR

Rheumatism depends on an acid in the blood, which affects the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain. This acid gets into the blood through some defect in the digestive process. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old-time blood tonic, is very successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It acts directly, with purifying effect, on the blood, and improves the digestion. Don't suffer. Get Hood's today.

Proof

A penitent looking man was on trial for vagrancy and disturbance of the peace. The judge seemed inclined to be lenient with him.

"What was the prisoner doing when you arrested him?" he said to the policeman.

"He was having a very heated argument with a cab driver, Your Honor."

"But that doesn't prove that he was the worse for liquor," the judge said. "Many sober people have arguments with cab drivers."

"So they do, Your Honor," said the policeman, "but in this case there was no cab driver."

PASTOR LIVES
ON $8 A WEEK
AND LIKES ITLOS ANGELES MAN IN CON-TEST WITH HIGH COST OF LIVING

Los Angeles, Nov. 3.—It can be done—live on $8 a week in an actuality to the Rev. and Mrs. Paul J. Goodwin of 1435 Delta street, who started married life on that income a little more than a month ago, and who declared the other night that they have found the sum not only sufficient for their needs, but even allows a saving of $1 a week or $10 a year, while they also give a little of their financial resources to the church.

Great interest has been manifested in various parts of the country in the determination of the young couple to live and be happy on the salary he receives as pastor of the Elysian Heights church, in South avenue, at Logan street, where the minister, who is twenty, and his bride, nineteen, make their home.

"We have had letters of inquiry from all parts of the United States," said the young divine, "showing the great interest taken in the economic problem which we are solving to our own satisfaction."

"The secret of success in living on our income is eternal vigilance. And we are no reason, after trying it for a month, why our plan should not work out permanently."

Of course, it is possible, others could not be contented to live as we do, but we have all that we want or need.

We care little for meat, and that naturally lessens our expenses. As for groceries, we purchase the staple articles in a lump weekly, keeping watch meantime for sales of certain articles which we use, and always studying prices so that we can take advantage of the leaders of the different grocers.

System is the thing. We are financially ahead of our income now. We balance our household books each week, and we know to a cent just where everything goes, what we have received and what we have paid for.

"We pay no laundry bills, except a minor one for collars. I wash our clothes and my wife trims them."

"We pay no rent, having the use of the parsonage free."

"We have found that $1 a week will pay our fuel, water and light bills. We allow $5.50 a week for groceries, and we get along very well, indeed."

We subdivide this 50 cents as follows: breakfast, 15 cents; luncheon, 15 cents; and dinner, 20 cents. We buy cereal at 9 cents a package that lasts us a week, and thereby makes the daily cost of our breakfast food only 1.2 cents for the two of us.

For clothing and incidentals we expend 25 cents a week, and for carfare 25 cents.

"We believe in following the old biblical custom of giving a tithe, or a tenth of one's income, to the church."

WHAT THE DOCTOR KNOWS.

KIDNEYS MUST BE RIGHT TO INSURE HEALTH

How people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot readily be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in one year, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it is particularly necessary to pay more attention to the health of these important organs.

An ideal health compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation, in most cases, is soon realized, according to sworn statements and verified testimony of those who have used the remedy.

When your kidneys require attention, get Swamp-Root at once from any pharmacy. It is sold by every druggist in bottle of two sizes—50c and $1.00.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send two cents to Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Guthrie Daily Leader.

and we expend 50 cents each week in that way.

A year or more ago I underwent a serious operation, from which I have not wholly recovered. So it is still necessary for me to have medicine. This costs 50 cents a week.

Then I am insured in a religious organization, and I pay 15 cents a week for this protection.

That makes a total of $7.50 a week for me, leaving 50 cents, which we either bank or put into some permanent household necessity."

Sufferer From Indigestion Relieved.

THE THEATRE

Guthrie Theater

Plays taken from books are always interesting, not only to people who have read the books but to others who have heard of them. To the readers there is great satisfaction in having visualized for them the characters of whom they have made a mental picture, and as it only happens that books of great interest are put on the stage, the person who has not read them has the satisfaction of getting the story and the characterization at first hand. One of the very popular books of the last ten years is Kate Douglas Wiggin's "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," which has been dramatized by the author with the assistance of Charlotte Thompson, and which will be seen here at Guthrie Theater Nov. 11.

'FOGHORN' BEST
BRITISH LINESREMARKABLE STORY OF CANADIAN'S HEROISM IN THE TRENCHES

(By Associated Press.)

London, Nov. 3.—"Foghorn" McDonald, who admits he's a "Scotch as a cat's paw," but who he doesn't have to admit is that he is beyond doubt the best known man in the wonderful his army Canada has sent over to fight for the mother country. General Sir Sam Hughes, Canadian Minister of Militia and Defence, is not jealous of "Foghorn's" distinction. The rawest rookie in the rear ranks of the Dominion forces probably knows the fighting line, and looks up to this world-wandering soldier of the clan McDonald as a shining example of what a lowly "hunk" can do in these times like these.

For "Foghorn" came over as a private himself just two short years ago. Some of the home folks told him he was a "damned old fool" to enlist at 31. But "Foghorn" had been a miner all his days. He had hit the western trail from smoky old Butte in the wilds of Montana, to the snow-covered valleys of the Yukon, and he knew what perseverance and pluck and courage and sacrifice could do.

He knew he would "make a grade," and so did a great crowd of his friends who gathered a day or two ago to "wet" that new third stripe and crown on the cuffs of his khaki army jacket. He was back from the front to receive this latest promotion, and he was hoisted a major of His Majesty's forces.

"Foghorn" was born Neil Robertson McDonald, but there are comparatively few who know him for that distinguished name. It's just plain "Foghorn" nowadays from one end of the trenches to the other, and one earful of that low rumbling, whistling-shattering, muffled-shivering voice exudes a possible doubt as to the derivation of the nickname.

There are plenty of Germans who know "Foghorn" too. In the days of the deathly deadlock, when trench was crept closer and closer together, he was one of those who burrowed beneath the earth and set off great mines under the enemy. He had not been a mining engineer in vain. Often his voice would be booming across "No Man's Land" hurling picturesque invectives at the Germans.

It is to know "Foghorn" McDonald is to miss one of the big human personalities of this war. It is not difficult to realize what a tower of encouragement and strength he is to the soldiers at the front.

He is the sort of officer whose men would follow him to the gates of hell itself and walk in laughing," declared Major, Edith Holland, a South African friend, and a "V" of the London war.

"And speaking of hell," he added, "there may or may not be something in the fact that Foghorn belongs to the Black Devils."

That is the name the Germans have given the Elch Battalion, Canadian Infantry, and the battalion has adopted as its insignia a small black imp dancing in a circle. They were delighted with the appellation, and are living up to it according to all reports from the Somme.

It has been said of "Foghorn" that he's not afraid of any man—and very few women. His home is in the great American west. He has lived much in the United States and almost every province in Canada can claim him as her own. His heart is as big as the world in which he has lived, and he has a way of calling a superior officer "Bill," or "Jim," or "George," and referring to a corporal as a "brother officer" that is quite baffling to the Englishman's idea of discipline. Someone spoke to "Fog" about it.

"Well sir," he explained, "it's a man's war, by God, sir, and I respect every mother's son who's out there doing his bit. I was a full-blooded 'hunk' myself once, and I know what they have to go through."

"Foghorn" has been serving for sometime as transport officer of the "Black Devils" and has been riding about the front lines on what he describes himself as "a mighty fine horse." Where he got the horse he will not tell you. It wouldn't be passed by the censor, he says.

A good transport officer tried to keep his losses of a mule and to make the deficiencies good as quickly as he can. "Foghorn" had his men in the Black Devils trained to the minute in that respect.

One night, he said, "we were taking some loads of ammunition away up in front. It was blacker than the sea of swades and it was struck a match and you'd get your eye shut out but in the midst of all this darkness and the shelling we were getting. I heard one of our men say to his partner, 'Keep your eye out for a good boss. Bill, this ought to be a good night to get out.'"

"Foghorn" served for a time as an officer in the United States army, the Third Volunteer Cavalry of the Spanish War.

"I think the officer commanding our regiment had fifteen or twenty million dollars," said "Foghorn." "I had a dollar and thirty-five cents myself."

A day or two ago a staff colonel from Canada, walked into the Savoy "Club."

"Hello Foghorn," he called out. "I heard you a couple of blocks down the street and came in to see you. Do you remember me?"

"Remember you?" repeated "Fog." "Why bless my brass-batted old soul I'd know your hide in a tin-tyard."

A brass hat is the army name for all staff officers, and it comes, of course, from the abundance of gold braid they wear on their caps. Someone asked how things were going at the front.

"Going," said "Fog." "Why the boys are nothing so gay out there one of our battalions came parading up to the front line trenches the other day with a brass band playing for all it was worth. They were right where they could not be killed any minute, too, and even my old boss thought they were crazy."

"Guess I'll be getting back to the front soon myself," he concluded with a sigh. "This quiet life of London is getting on my nerves."
